ing on in the crisp air to bring blood to the cheek and a Thanksgiving appetite. A lot of family parties came down on the special train running from New York to pick up holiday visitors. The presence of many young people made things particularly lively at the Homeatead, with nightly dances and supper parties in the grill for evening entertainment, and golf, tennis and horseback riding for the day diversions. Also there was the usual round of luncheons at the Daniel Boone Log Cabin and at Fassieru Farm. Some wag at the latter place, by the way, coloned a new daifodii. Mrs. Herwind rose to the occasion by placing a wholesale order for candy in hoxes, a treat not before givn in addition to the dinner. Notice was posted that each caddy serving throughout the afternoon would be given a box upon his return from the course, if his services had been satisfactory. This did the trick, and no matter how surprising an amount of turkey and pumpkin pic each "Johnny Pitch" had managed to cram down his dusky taroat, every last member of the Pitch family waddled about the links as complacently as a duck, quacked out his little "Thank you, ma'am," when Mrs. Berwind's candy was given him, and sktdaddled.
